From a young age, Cal found himself in therapy to cope with a variety of behavioral issues. Violent outbursts, running away, and the lack of a proper autism diagnosis caused catastrophic stress for Cal and his family.

This all changed when Cal's parents received a phone call from Paws With A Cause[®] regarding their application for a Service Dog for Children with Autism (SDA). PAWS thought Cal's needs were a perfect match for SDA Dog ARTY, which was confirmed the moment the two met.

The impact of ARTY has been life-changing for Cal and his family. Cal's medication dosage has been lowered, he was recently mainstreamed into some general education classes at school, and his mother, Brandy, is considering returning to work full-time.

But, most of all, Cal now has a sense of independence - something his parents say they had lost hope of ever achieving.

"Before ARTY, I could not go to college, move away, get married, have a family. Now all those 'can'ts' are 'cans'!" Cal shared.

We are truly grateful to our many generous donors who made a financial gift to Paws With A Cause[®] this holiday season. If you have not yet given, there's still time! TOGETHER WE CAN enhance the independence and quality of life for people with disabilities.
